The Stare and Bars Carried Union Down-A Socialistic Demonstration.

A Socialistic Demonstration.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

New Yone, May 1.—Eight thousand men, marching to the tune of the Marseullaise and other airs, and carrying aloft red flags, and the Socialistic bodies, carrying the American flag union down, assembled at Union Square to-night to participate in the eight-hour labor demonstration held under the anspices of the Central Labor Federation and the Socialistic Labor Party.

The organizations represented included the eigarmakers, bakers, waiters, confectioners, tailors, movers, the food-producing trades, and the clothing industries. The meeting was under the direction of the Socialistic Labor party and the Central Labor Federation.

SOCIALISTIC SENTIMENTS.

SOCIALISTIC SENTIMENTS.

Lucien Saniel, editor of The People, called the meeting to order. He said as men they should stand together, not as entizens of the United States but as workers of the world against plutocracy. [Cheers.] The working classes must have their eight-hour day.

August Delabar also denounced capitalists. Other speakers followed in the same vein—that the eight-hour day should be decreed by statute; that the economic struggle should be reinforced by political action to secure such legislation, and that they were not to lose sight of the ultimate aim of the proletarian movement—the abolition of wage-slavery—but should urge all wage-workers to rally under the Socialist Labor party to bring about that final change.

In Richmond there was no cognizance whatever taken of the 1st of Msy, from a labor standpoint. All of the artisans pursued the even tenor of their way, seemingly satisfied with their hours of work and compensation therefor.

The plasterers' union, nearly all of whom are negroes, had threatened to demand eight hours after yesterday, but several of them when asked about it said they knew nothing of it.

The stone-cutters will continue as, for the past five years to work for nine hours per day, for which they are paid $3. Their local union has 200 members and the na-tional body 9,000.

demand was made for $3 per day for especially dangerous jobs.

As for the last three years, nine hours will still constitute a day's work for the 200 carpenters composing the union. Their wages, as fixed by the union, are according to rating $2.25, $2.50, and $3 per day—though a majority of mechanics of this class get less than these prices.

There are thirteen other trade unions in the city, the members of most of which work ten hours and are paid accordingly.

There were about four hundred Demo-crats present last night at the open-air speaking of the Lee District Democratic Club of Henrico, making it one of the largest ever held in the county. A YOUNG MAN DROWNED. Sad Ending of a Fishing Party on James

Yesterday afternoon Mr. M. B. Buchanan, Mr. R. L. Brown, Jr., and a son of Dr. Bryant were fishing in a row-boat. When the boat was near the Chesapeake and Ohio wharves a tug passed, the swash from which caused the boat to capsize, throwing all three young men into the water. Brown and Bryant were picked up by Messrs. Myers, Hecht, and John Childrey, but before assistance could reach Buchanan he was drowned.

Mr. Buchanan was twenty-three years of age and was in the employment of Rothert & Co., and leaves a wife and children. Friends went down and made a search for his body, but late in the evening it had not been found.

Buchanan is said to have been a splendid swimmer, but after starting to the shore turned back to the capsized boat.

The application for the appointment of a receiver for the road was continued until June 2d.

The Orange and Keysville road has never been completed. Its route is from some point in Orange county to Keysville in Charlotte. About eighteen miles of tracklaying has been done, and the road graded for some distance.

This case came up before the Farmville Court, but for personal reasons it was not tried there.

(By Angle-American cable to the Dispatch.) ROME, ITALY, May 1-5 P. M.-A meeting of workingmen took place this afternoon near the Church of San Giovanni. Five members of the Chamber of Deputies were present. An Anarchist speaker violently urged his hearers to attack the police. The mob stoned the troops stationed in the neighborhood. Some of the noters the neighborhood. Some of the rioters hurled stones at the troops from the windows of houses. The gendarmes fired upon the rioters and the cavalry charged those who had not been put to flight by the gendarmes fire. At the same time the infantry were ordered to storm the houses from which the stones had been thrown. Signor Barzilai, a member of the Chamber of Deputies: Signor Cipriani. a Socialist leader, and twenty-five others were wounded. One man was killed outright by the gendarmes' fire and one gendarme was stabbed to death by the rioters. During the cavalry charge several troopers were unhorsed and injured.

NO DISORDER, BUT MUCH EXCITEMENT.

MADRID, SPAIN, May 1.—While there has been no actual disorder throughout Spain, in many towns the people are excited and a general feeling of insecurity prevails. The stringent military precautions taken in the industrial centres have not been useless. In Barcelona the tailors and bakers struck. The masons there declare that they will not return to work until a work-day of eight hours is granted. NO DISORDER, BUT MUCH EXCITEMENT.

CIGAR-MAKERS STAY AT HOME. HAVANA, CUBA, May 1.—A majority of the workmen in this city, including all the cigar- and cigarette-makers, remained away from the factories to-day. Extraordinary precautions were taken by the authorities to prevent disorder and to quell any disturbance that might occur. AN ANARCHIST PLOT AT BOME.

AN ANABCHIST PLOT AT ROME.

ROME, May 2.—Abundant evidence is appearing that there was a carefully-organized Anarchist plot here. The Chamber of Deputies presented a stormy scene. Radical members trying to blame the Government for the disturbances, while Minister Nicotera stoutly defended the Ministry and set forth the patience and self-control of the soldiers, under showers of stones, after being on duty many hours. It is reported that Signor Capriana's wound is mortal.

The demonstration held on the Prater in Vienna was smaller than in 1890. In Holland there was no cessation of work. In Brussels at 8 o'clock in the evening 10,000 men marched in procession from the Bourse through the town to the strains of the Marseillaise, with banners, transparencies, and devices asking free suffrage. The pavements were througed with orderly on-lookers, Paris to-day was even freer for traffic than on last May day. The paraders ap-peared to take delight in goading the police into charging them. The Place de la Concorde was cleared at 7 o'clock in the evening. No further incident was re-ported.

Beelin, Gra., May 1.—Herr Leibknecht addressed a Socialistic meeting this evening. The attendance was much smaller than was expected. Last May-day 20,000 Berliners observed the day as a holiday, but to-day there was practically no cessation of work.

STUBBOIN MOBS OF SOCIALISTS.

LYONS, FRANCE, May 1.—Three different times to-day a stubborn mob overwhelmed the police force and cavalry were brought into requisition. The mob fought the cavalry with stones and clubs, but were finally dispersed. All who were arrested were found to be heavily armed. Three policemen were seriously hurt in the course of the day's fighting with the rioters, who were chiefly Socialists.

THE DAY'S WORE EEWEWED.

ROME, May 1.—Altogether 100 persons were arrested to-day. Nine soldiers and five civilians were wounded. Minister Nicolera, replying to questions in the Chamber of Deputies, said there were 300 Anarchists among those present at the workmen's demonstration; that the public forces had been attacked with revolvers lie forces had been attacked with revolvers lie forces had been attacked with revolvers and that shots had been fired the same name, one of the Ionian of the same name, one of the Ionian and stones, and that shots had been fired from the windows of Signor Cipriani's residence, and that therefore the demon-stration had been suppressed.

Forces-Many Arrests.

(By Angle-American cable to the Dispatch. [By Angle-American cable to the Dispatch.]

Paris, May 1.—The city of Paris on this day, anxiously looked forward to in many quarters, presents its usual smiling aspect with the exception that there is a stir somewhat more lively than usual in quarters which are mainly inhabited by the so-called working classes—in other words, artisans, laborers and the minor class of employes. The weather at this hour—9 A. M.—is unsettled, all usual traffic is running smoothly and without any outward signs that this state of affairs will be disturbed during the course of the day.

any outward signs that this state of alfairs will be disturbed during the course of the day.

Troops of cavalry throughout the past night steadily patrolled the Socialist quarters, the clanking of sabres and clang of the iron-shod hoofs of the troopers' horses giving the streets of those districts that peculiar, strange flavor which was so familiar to Parisians during the period which immediately followed the suppression of the Commune. Paris, in fact, seemed to be in an active state of siege, for in addition to cavalry and police patrols, the many infantry regiments now garrisoned in this city were held under arms, rifles loaded, through the night, and they are still in readiness at a moment's notice to occupy the strategic positions previously assigned to them.

The police are not idle, even if the troops are being mainly relied upon to quell any possible disturbance. Acting upon the theory that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure the police yesterday evening arrested about 300 Anarchists, Socialists, and other persons coming under the category of "dangerous characters." These men will be held as prisoners until all signs of danger are passed, in order to prevent them from inciting riots or in any other way taking steps which might lead to disturbance of the peace.

FOURMISS, FRANCE, May 1.—One half of the workingmen here attended to their duties to-day. The remainder abstained from work and were very noisy, marching about the streets, singing, shouting, etc. A mob of 4,000 hooted at a body of gendarmes, and the gendarmes drew their sabres and attempted to disperse the crowd, but were received with a shower of stones and were compelled to retreat. The troops had some difficulty in restoring order.

Later in the day there was a bloody collision between miners and the police, in which seven persons were killed and twelve wounded.

Paris, May 1.—1 P. M.—It is now raining here. All was quiet until noon, when there was a scene of great commotion in the vicinity of Rue Berry. The cause of the tunuit was a loud explosion which broke the windows all around the locality mentioned. The street, happily, was deserted at the time of the explosion. Consequently nobody was injured. No one seems able to explain the motive for the explosion, which is said to have been caused by a bomb or by dynamite cartridges.

London, Eng., May 1.—Innumerable telegrams from all parts of the Continent received up to midnight show that while there was a general ferment the workingmen nowhere showed a disposition of themselves to cause trouble or loss of the sympathy of the public by lilegal manifestations. Neither have the predictions of a universal strike been fulfilled. On the contrary, though numbers of workmen took holiday, even on the pain of dismissal, in order to join the processions—mainly confined to miners, the natural leaders in the eight-hour movement—Monday will see most of them resuming their vocations most of them resuming their vocations with but tew lockouts.

ALL OUTBREAKS CAUSED BY ANARCHISTS. The Anarchists eagerly seized the chance to air their doctrines, with the added zest of a possible scuffle with the authorities, and the outbreaks recorded were invariably due to their efforts and doubtless would have been more effectual but for the admirable police and military preparations. MERELY A COINCIDENCE.

MERELY A COINCIDENCE.

The fact that the first meeting of the Labor Commission was held on May-day is merely a coincidence. The English workers are waiting for Sunday. The London carpenters and joiners commenced a strike to night. Germany has been almost equally quiet. The meetings were sparsely attended. Those men who remained at work were given a day's pay from the general strike fund. In Austria and Hungary the day was taken up with merely hohday diyersions. At Bekes the military were called upon to quell a Socialist riot, and several persons were wounded. The total number of arrests is 120.

London, Eng., May 1.—The first meeting of the Royal Labor Commission, appointed to inquire into the relations existing between capital and labor, and into the causes of strikes and the best means to be taken in order to avoid them, took place most appropriately to-day. What transpired at the meeting is not known, as the meeting was held in private. It is judged, however, that the commission simply talked over the plans for its future meetings, and arranged other details of its permanent organization. Several members of the commission at the meeting held this morning advocated that the public should be admitted to the sessions of the commission, and as a result of their representations it is thought that at least a part of the meetings will be open to the public. The Turkish commandant threatened to fire if the vessel attempted to pass. M. Nelidoff has sent a strong note to the Porte in which he demands $5,000 damages, the dismissal of the commandant, and the right of absolutely free passage for Russian vessels sailing under the mercantile flag. been vacant. The announcement that his probable successor was to officiate did not fail to bring out the congregation in large numbers. numbers.

A few minutes before 7 o'clock the reverend gentleman began to read the regular Friday-evening service in Hebrew. The choir sang occasionally, and the only deviation was a very short prayer in English.

TRIBUTE TO DR. HARRIS.

Before beginning his sermon proper Mr Calish referred teelingly to the death of Rev. Dr. Harris. He said: "Kind friends. I arise before you this evening with trembling and trepidation when I remember that this place is hallowed by one who was dear to all, and whose life was given up at this desk. The kindness and cordiality which have been extended me on every hand have restored me and given me by my merits, but by the light of your kindness and indulgence."

Mr. Calish then proceded with his discourse, which was a comparison of the Wandering Jew of fiction, as drawn by Eugene Sue, and the Wandering Jew of history. The former was a creation of the author's brain, and was burdened with a curse that allowed him to rest nowhere and made his life unendurable.

The Wandering Jew of history, go where he might, possessed a blessing which enabled him to brave all climes and inured him to all danger. That blessing was his faith in God, which the hand of man could not take from him. Nothing could divest him of his reverence for God and His law. THE WANDERING JEW.

NO MORE A NATION. They are, he continued, not a nation, but They are, he continued, not a nation, but a creed. The average Jew no longer hopes for a national restoration. He has become a loyal citizen in whatever country he has sworn allegiance. In England he is an Englishman; in Germany a German; in France a Frenchman, and in America an American. He is a citizen of the world. There, said the reverend gentleman, is a legend that man is made of earth taken from all the continents combined, to enable him to live in any clime. Reasoning from this standpoint that from which the Jew was created must be of a very superior quality, for he not only exists but thrives in every clime.

every clime. The Jew of to-day does not wish to be The Jew of to-day does not wish to be part of a weak, puny, and uninfluential nation, cooped up in the narrow confines of Palestine.

There may have been a time when they all hoped to return to the Holy Land. Now, however, the prophecy of Isaiah is no longer regarded as a living promise. After eighteen centuries of patient waiting its literal fulfilment is no longer looked for. They realize that it means something deeper and grander and more spiritual.

deeper and grander and more spiritual.

FOR ALL NATIONS.

He understands that the law which came from Sinai was not intended for bim alone, and that the nation was not scattered for no purpose. Without God's law, Israel is nothing; with it, it is everything. It is not the property of one tribe, but of all, and will leaven the whole. He begins to realize that the prophesy was spiritually intended. Their hope for the future is to fulfil this mission.

For this new purpose the Jew now goes forth, and in time to come all nations will come together.

fully from philosophy. Of course, he be-gan, all the congregation understood that white was not one color, but a combination of seven. To prove this a ball or top, painted in different hues, when rapidly revolved at a sufficient sphere becomes a dazzlng white.

In his application of the illustration Mr. Calish was especially happy. His words were: "This giant ball is the earth. The different religions represent the various colors. The faster it turns the less visible becomes the line of demarcation. The eventual dazzling, which is the one grand religion—the Word of God as it came forth from Zion." The day will come when all the nations will become one nation; all people will be one people, all kneeling at the shrine of God.

God.

Then will Israel's hone be fulfilled, and the Wandering Jew will be at rest. Amen.

A YOUNG MINISTER.

Mr. Calish is a very young man, apparently of about twenty-seven or eight. He is of medium height, rather inclined towards stoutness. A smiling face, clean-shaven, gives him an appearance which but for his calling might be said to be akin to jollity.

His delivery, which is good, was height-His delivery, which is good, was neightened by appropriate but not excessive gestures. He has a rich, deep, baritone voice, well modulated, which he has perfect control of and uses with good effect. His sentences are forcible, with good, vigorous English, clearly enunciated. Death of Mr. C. C. Hanes.

Mr. Charlie C. Hanes, who had been in failing health for a long time, died last night at 19 o'clock. He had suffered greatly from asthma for a number of years, and recently was troubled with other complaints. He had a fall a few days ago which produced concussion of the brain and hastened his death.

Mr. Hanes, who was in the sixty-second vegr of his age, was well known in Rich-Messra. Walter T. Hanes, of Cumberland, and Garland Hanes, of Henrico; one sister, Mrs. Frank W. Chamberlayne, and four children. He was a gentleman of refinement and culture, cordial in his manners, and both generous and charitable.

About 9 o'clock the Richmond Grays, under command of Captain C. Gray Bossieux, marched into the hall amidst great enthusiasm. They came at the special invitation of the Blues, and were cordially greeted by Captain Cutchins, who made them a very pretty little address of welcome. It was gracefully responded to by Captain Bossieux.

NEWS NOTES FROM MANCHESTER. No Quorum of the Council-Fell from

Scaffold-Personal, Etc. A special meeting of the Council was called for last night to consider an application from the Manchester Railway and Improvement Company for the right to run its car line up Bainbridge street from Twelfth to Cowardin avenue. Representatives of the Richmond Railway and Electric Company, by which this Mayo's-bridge line is controlled, were present, but there was no meeting in consequence of the lack of a quorum.

It is understood that if this franchise is granted the company will abandon the route up McDonough street from Twelfth to Cowardin avenue. There is considerable interest in this matter, and it is understood that objections will be raised to the granting of the franchise.

William Epps, a colored man, was badly hurt yesterday afternoon in falling from a scaffold at the Richmond and Danville railroad yard, where he was working upon a building in the course of erection. Epps was up to the second story, and when he fell a granite window-sill fell to the ground with him. He received an ugly wound and other bruises on the head. He walked up town and had his wounds dressed by Dr. Lawrence Ingram.

the place of General John R. Cooke, deceased.

A motion was made and adopted to postpone the election until next Friday night, when perhaps one of the largest meetings the Camp has held for a long time will take place.

The death of Charles E. Woods, Esq., was announced. Mr. Woods was the Confederate soldier to whose critical condition and needy circumstances attention was called by the Disparce about two weeks ago. Since that time the members of the Camp have been unremitting in their kindness. His necessities have been relieved and every attention has been given him. While the Camp as an organition has done its part, Comrade James T. Gray has, with generosity rarely exhibited, been unremitting in his attention and ceaseless in his endeavors to minister to every want of this worthy comrade who in defence of the cause of the South shed his blood.

Mr. Woods was elected a member of the Camp, and will be buried by the Camp either in the saldiers!

THIS POPULAR CLUB GIVES ITS LAST

GERMAN OF THE SEASON. Brilliant Event at Belvidere Hall with Over Sixty Participants-Visitors

Junior German Club is irrepressible—that is to say, they seem determined to keep in motion "the light fantastic toe" as long as the weather will possibly permit. Perhaps this love of the terpsichorean art ac-counts in some measure for the grace they have all acquired. At any rate, though young in years, all the "Juniors" are beautiful dancers and their germans seem to be the delight of the older girls, or rather the girls who also dance at the more rather the girls who also dance at the more mature germans.

It had been announced some time ago that the "Juniors" had given their last german of the season, but not with standing this report they assembled again at Belvidere Hail last night, and their dance was one of the largest and most beautiful which has occurred for months.

MANY WERE THE DANCERS. MANY WERE THE DANCERS.

Nearly sixty gentlemen were present, which necessarily gave each girl a bevy of admirers. The fair sex, too, were in attendance by dozens, and pretty dresses were innumerable. When the dancers were in motion the scene was lovely and enchanting and the ball-room presented a brilliant scene.

ing and the ball-room presented a brilliant seene.

The music for the occasion was furnished by the First Regiment Band, which consists of nearly a dozen pieces. When the dancers were all in line for that stately figure of the german—the grand march—the musicians struck up "Dixie" in lively strains, and nearly every one present clapped their hands in great enthusiasm.

Fourteen of the students from the University of Virginia and the University of North Carolina were present by invitation, and added additional entertainment for the ladies present, who, like all their sex, like many and new admirers.

PRETTY FIGURES.

The figures of the german, like all in the dances the "Juniors" have, were both unique and beautiful, and the "serpentings" of the terpsichoreans were as graceful as Hogarth's line of beauty. Mr. Dolph Blair was the leader, and it was due to his skill that everything passed off so harmoniously. The ladies who chaperoned the belies were Mrs. Thomas Bolling, Mrs. Moneure Perkins, Mrs. A. B. Camm, Mrs. W. G. Miller, Mrs. Shell, Mrs. Avery, Mrs. E. A. Saunders.
